

2004 Junior Solar Sprint

ATTENTION

Middle School Students and Teachers!!!!

You are invited to compete in the 14th annual
Junior Solar Sprint

What is the Junior Solar Sprint? It's fast!! It's fun!! The Junior Solar Sprint (JSS) Program is a classroom-based, hands-on educational program for 6th, 7th, and 8th grade students. JSS student teams apply math, science, and creativity to construct model solar-powered cars and race them.

When is the Junior Solar Sprint? The Junior Solar Sprint, hosted by the National Renewable Energy Laboratory, will take place on Saturday, May 15, 2004 at the National Renewable Energy Laboratory's Solar Energy Research Facility, in Golden, Colorado.

Who can compete? Any Colorado elementary or middle school student in grades 6 through 8. Teams are comprised of up to four students and a coach (usually a science or math teacher).

What is the Prize? The top three teams from the Colorado regional Junior Solar Sprint Competition are awarded trophies.
